

Kinda Curious About Kinder Ground?

Check out how we support the farming community to elevate the welfare of animals in food production

Elevating Stockmanship

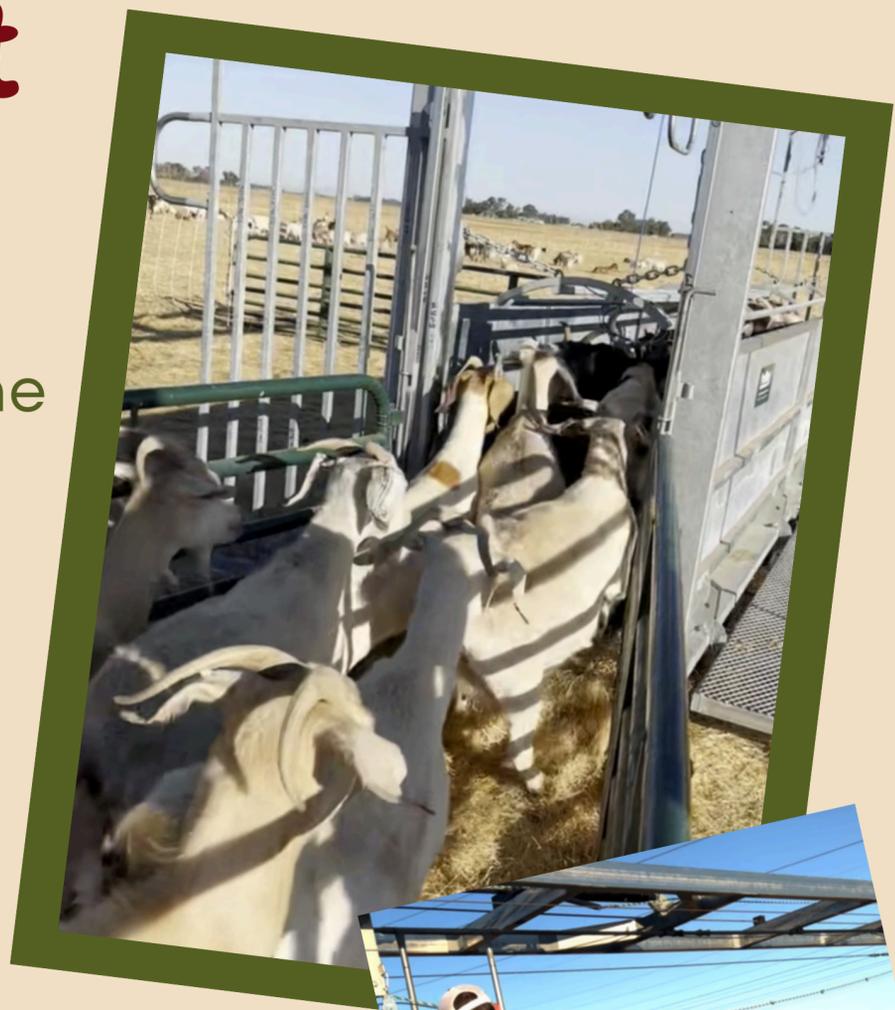

Targeted grazing means your facilities go where you go and that can make it extra hard when you are managing over 2,000 sheep and goats across Northern California. Routine vaccinations and sorting can become stressful from handling and extended waiting in the hot summer sun.

This system mimics the method designed by Temple Grandin creating system that keeps the animals secure and calm while making it easier and safer on the caregivers. This system, originally designed in Australia, allows groups of animals to enter together at the ground level and then get lifted, safely suspended to prevent jumping and moving, raising them to a level easy for caregivers manage.

Find Out More or Donate to Make a Difference At:
KinderGround.org

Kinder Ground
Where compassion grows

Location
Auburn, CA

Grant
$10,000
33% of project cost

OUTCOMES

- Goats stay calm
- No more slips, falls or jumps
- Safer for the goats and people
- Saves time and stress